SOS: Badnarik Ineligible for Michigan Ballot

LEC To Hold Special Convention

The Libertarian Party will have 65 candidates across the state of Michigan this November, but according to Michigan's Secretary of State Office, Michael Badnarik and Richard Campanaga will not be among them. Badnarik and Campanaga were nominated for President and Vice-President respectively, by the Libertarian Party at the National Convention in Atlanta, Georgia on May 30, 2004. Even though the Libertarian Party of Michigan does have ballot status, state law requires that the party submit the names of all nominated persons by the end of the next business day after the conclusion of the convention. The office of the Secretary of State claims that no notice was given before 5:00 PM on June 1. The State

LP is working with the SOS on this, and is hopeful that a waiver will soon be granted and our candidates will be on the ballot. In an attempt to remedy this problem, the Executive Committee of the LPM has voted to "hold a special convention on Wednesday July 21, 2004, at 7:30 PM, to nominate and confirm candidates. The convention shall be held at the state office conference room at 913 W. Holmes Road, Lansing, MI. In the event that prior to the convening of this convention, the Michigan Secretary of State accepts the names of the candidates who were selected at the LP national convention for placement on the November ballot, this convention may then be canceled at the discretion of the LPM Chair."

Steinport Falls Short in Re-Election Bid

by Tom Quinn

In mid 2001, Jeff Steinport of Grand Rapids resigned his position as the chairman of the Libertarian Party of West Michigan to enable him to more fully concentrate his energies as a new member of the Grand Rapids School Board. He managed his new responsibilities so well that his fellow board members assigned him the position of treasurer and also selected him to be their representative on the Grand Rapids Downtown Development Authority. Unfortunately, Jeff lost his bid for reelection to the school board this June, garnering just under 20% of the vote and coming in fourth in a field of five for three positions. Along with the issues of student achievement, discipline, and safety, Jeff made it a top priority to keep a close eye on the district's finances. He pointed out that less than half of the budget went toward teachers and the classroom, and criticized schools in the county for paying for prime rib dinners at taxpayer expense. He led his fellow members to turn down membership in state and national organizations, saving the district thousands of dollars. He also took an unsuccessful stand against an offer from the State of Michigan to lease laptop computers for sixth graders, saying there was no empirical evidence that the one million dollars the program would cost would result in higher student achievement. "The bond on the ballot is what killed me" Stienport said.

From the Chair

by Michael Donahue

Greetings to all Michigan Libertarians!

It's been over two months since you honored me with the Chairmanship of the Libertarian Party of Michigan and I must admit to still being a bit overwhelmed by it all. To put it mildly, things have been hectic. However, I suppose that's to be expected in a presidential election year.

The first thing to keep us occupied was the clearing out of the Hazel Park Headquarters which ceased operation as of May 31, 2004. After many hands pitched in to remove all our belongings the goal was accomplished successfully. Thanks go to a lot of people but I want to especially commend Nathan Allen, Leonard Schwartz and Will White for taking so much responsibility and making sure the job was done. And we can't overlook our good friend, Fred Collins, who provided an official dumpster of his own and carted away the items we no longer could use. We now are nicely situated in our new Headquarters in Lansing where we are, thankfully, spending much less of our financial resources each month to have a presence in an accessible location for all our members across the state. If you haven't visited the new office please do so whenever you can. The address and phone etc. are listed on our website.

The next item on our agenda was the National Convention of the Libertarian Party in Atlanta, Georgia May 27 through 31, 2004. Our state was well represented by 30 delegates who participated in the work, fun and excitement of the Convention. The balloting for our presidential nominee was very interesting, to say the least, and by now you all know the results. Michael Badnarik is an outstanding candidate and I urge all of you to get behind his campaign and support it whatever way you can. I was very proud of all of our delegates in Atlanta for the way they approached their duties in choosing our various nominees and Party officials. Michigan had one of the larger delegations to the Convention and therefore enjoyed great visibility all weekend. We especially were visible when one of our own, Fred Collins, was named National Campaign Manager for the Badnarik Campaign. As you can easily recognize, this is an enormous job and any help you can offer Fred over the next few months will be greatly appreciated. Now we have another reason to get behind the Badnarik Campaign. Our Michigan delegation, by the way, was part of the over 800 delegates and over 1,000 registrants to the Convention, thus making it one of the more well attended Conventions in recent memory. All in all, you were well represented by our delegation which did its part in putting forth a very favorable image for the National Party as you may have noticed if you watched the proceedings on C-Span. I would urge all of you to consider attending a National Convention some year. It's an impressive event.

LEC Makes Plans

by Keith Edwards

Riding on the wave of unity established at the State Convention, the Executive Committee of the Libertarian Party of Michigan laid out its organizational plans for the 2004-05 year at its meeting at the new Headquarters in Lansing on May 16. Chair Mike Donahue started the ball rolling by asking each LEC member to oversee one or more of the LPM's functions. This gets the at-large directors more involved in actual operations. For example, Rae Jozwiak will oversee convention planning by the sponsoring affiliate. Greg Stempfle will serve as political director including candidate development. While there appears to be some overlap, the system will be tweaked as time passes to avoid blurring of responsibility.

Stempfle announced he plans to hold two leadership conferences stressing candidate training. Jozwiak will coordinate the convention chair's plans with the treasurer and be sure that the timeline will work.

Affiliate development will be pushed by Vice Chair Jim Miller along with former Chair Bill Gelineau and a membership chair to be named. Nathan Allen will work with Treasurer Wil White on financial matters. Dan Sheil will oversee marketing and work on student outreach. Secretary Tom Quinn will oversee web site, newsletter and communications director. Jim Allison will work with Steve VanTil in the webmaster job, succeeding Ben Bachrach who has been a tower of strength in the LPM for years.

Donahue reported that there are prospects for new affiliates in St. Clair, Monroe and Isabella counties.

The meeting was well attended by other activists who also provided input.

LPM State Picnic

by Rosemarie Jozwiak

We hope everyone will join us for the festivities as the 2004 LPM State Picnic being hosted by the Tri-City affiliate on Sunday, August 22.

Invitations have been issued to both the Presidential and Vice-Presidential candidates. As of this printing, confirmation of attendance has been received from Mr. Campagna.

So for those who were unable to attend the National Convention in Atlanta, this is an ideal opportunity to meet and speak to him (them?) personally. Let's show the media that support is strong for our candidates. And don't forget to invite that dissatisfied with the D's and R's, libertarian-leaning person to attend with you. It is just a short Sunday afternoon drive. Hope to see you there!

Medical Marijuana

were submitted to the Ann Arbor Clerk last month for their proposal.

Since 1996 when California and Arizona votes said "yes" to medical marijuana, the issue has won every single time it has appeared on the ballot.

Specifically, the proposal asks voters to amend the city code by granting an exemption under city ordinances (protection from criminal prosecution) to those residents who need to possess and use the marijuana plant for medicinal purposes. The proposal would amend Chapter 38. Offenses, Miscellaneous Provisions by adding two sections. A new §38-11-9 would permit possession of marijuana "under the direction, prescription, supervision, or guidance of a physician or other licensed medical professional." A new §38-11-32 would exempt patients from prosecution under the "Drug Paraphernalia" section so that they may possess the means needed to ingest marijuana."

Please visit their website www.mmdetroit.org for additional information.

Medical marijuana is a winnable issue with Americans across the board. All libertarians are encouraged to help out with this effort. If you are interested in working at a poll on Primary Tuesday, August 3, please contact Tim Beck at info@mmdetroit.org.

Troika Manages Presidential Campaign

by Jamie Lewis

"Close" seems inadequate to describe the Presidential voting at this year's National Libertarian Convention. After three ballots featuring three of the most qualified presidential candidates ever, the Texas Constitutional scholar, Michael Badnarik, emerged as the Libertarian nominee to challenge assumed nominees George Bush and John Kerry. The first challenge to be overcome was that up until the Atlanta Convention Michael was operating on what he says "would generously be referred to as a shoestring budget" and a campaign team of two people.

Enter Fred Collins.

Fred Collins gave the Second nominating speech for Badnarik at the convention and followed that up by stepping forward as the Campaign Manager. Fred then brought in fellow Troika members Barb Goushaw-Collins as Assistant Campaign Manager and Greg Dirasian as IT Manager.

The Troika team has been very successful in getting Michigan Libertarian Party members elected to non-partisan offices in Michigan. David Eisenbacher and Martin Howrylak in Troy, Andy LeCureaux in Hazel Park, and Erin Stahl in St. Clair Shores all won with the assistance of Troika. Since the new management team has been in place, the campaign team has grown from 2 to over 20 members from across the country, many of them being former Gary Nolan and Aaron Russo supporters. A campaign headquarters is being set up in Austin Texas. The top priorities for the campaign right now are fundraising, writing position papers, scheduling events and appearances, coordinating those plans with travel arrangements and media interviews. The fundraising goal has been set at over $100,000 a week with 80% of all funds raised to be dedicated for TV advertising. Yard signs, bumper stickers and campaign Literature are being designed to be downloaded by the state campaign committees so they can be produced locally.

Coordinating a national campaign is a huge undertaking and can only be done well if you have reliable and dedicated people to handle the details on the state level. In Michigan Jim Allison has been named coordinator for Michael Badnarik's campaign. "I'd like to put together a successful trip through Michigan for him in mid September" Allison says. "I have a fundraising dinner in the planning process in Macomb County, but nothing is set in stone as of yet. I'm thinking about booking him at colleges in the area too. If you know of any large groups or events that he could speak at, or have ideas about other events for our Presidential candidate, let me know. The more ideas the better!"

On another front, your State Party Libertarian Executive Committee (LEC) has already had its first regular meeting. Let me say right here that the newly elected LEC appears to be outstanding. Its members are nicely representative of all parts of our state and include some relatively new Libertarians as well as some old timers who've been around the barn a few times. It's a great mix and I believe it promises a fine year ahead. I have asked several members of the Party to pitch in this year and help with duties and projects to make the overall burden a little lighter for all of us. I am a firm believer in utilizing as many members as possible to achieve our Party's goals. Especially in a presidential election year there are many things to do. The initial organization table for the Party is set out on our website and I encourage you to check it out. If there are any activities that interest you let me know or contact the LEC member who oversees it. And if you think of activities we should be doing please let me know and I will consider them gladly. Many hands make light work and also give us a sense of participation and achievement. It's good for us as individual members and it's good for the Party. If you are asked to help out during the year with one of our activities I hope you will pitch in. As we go through the year I believe we should focus on support for our candidates throughout our State, membership development and active participation in our local affiliates. Be sure you attend your local meetings to help make your affiliate strong. That's a principal way to make our Party grow.

One of the people I have asked to assist the State Party this year is Steve Van Til of our West Michigan Affiliate. Steve is our new Webmaster. You may wonder why we need a new one. Well, it's because our long-serving Webmaster has asked for relief from these duties after many years of unheralded behind the scenes exemplary service in that position. Of course, that person is Ben Bachrach who has done so much for our Party for so many years in many different capacities, and always with congeniality and competence. We owe Ben a great vote of thanks for his service. So we say here and now, THANKS, BEN!

This first Chair's Message cannot end without a final acknowledgment of the great work done over the last year by our Immediate Past Chair, Bill Gelineau. He truly gave every ounce of his energy to the job last year. His vision of the State Party made us a better organization when he finished than when he began. We thank you, Bill, for your dedication and untiring efforts. And unlike some of his predecessors, he's not fading into the sunset now that his service as Chair is completed. He has offered to work in whatever role I can use him and so I have asked him to work under our Vice-Chair, Jim Miller, to assist with Membership, Affiliate Development and the Operation of the State HQ and Field Director's activities. I'm sure his experience in these areas will help Jim and the LEC achieve some of our goals this year. Thanks again, Bill, for your dedication and your loyalty. It has been, is and will be appreciated as you continue your efforts for Liberty.

One final thought. Something we can all do this year is help our membership grow. Please consider getting one new member for the Party between now and Election Day. If we all get one we'll double our membership and be the second largest state party in the nation. I know you can do it. You know you can do it. As they say in the Nike ads, "Just do it." See you next issue.

"I was seen as an opponent to the administration and the bond was essentially a referendum on their work thus far. Since I didn't hold hands and rubber stamp everything, those who voted in favor of the bond (which passed handily) most likely voted for the status-quo trio." Still, Jeff was a bit surprised at his loss as he had felt strong community support for his efforts on the board, and had earned the endorsement of the Grand Rapids Press. "It's very difficult to reach the people who don't regularly vote but just come out for bond votes. If I had reached them with my message, I probably would have won. However, after having two weeks to reflect, I don't see my loss as a bad thing. I've had other plans in the education realm on the back burner and I've just moved my timetable up by three years. I've seen the inside of the education bureaucracy and it isn't pretty. There is virtually no accountability, follow up, or concern for cost-effectiveness. Only in the education world is spending $10,000 per student considered way too little. The only real loss here is to the taxpayers. Their money will now be spent foolishly without anyone asking questions or demanding results."

Libertarians Delivering the Message

Andy LeCureaux

Office: Hazel Park city council- 2001 and re-elected in 2003

Positions Held: Being the top vote getter in 2003 I was named (as is customary not required) Mayor Pro-Tem.

City Population: Just under 19,000

City Budget: $10.8 million.

What made you decide to join the party and when? I joined the party in 1998 but have voted Libertarian or independent all my adult life. I joined because I wanted to get involved in the fight against income taxes and ending failed the war on drugs.

What has been your involvement in the LP? I was a LPOC executive board member in 2000 until I was elected to city council in 2001. I also was candidate for U.S. Congress in 2000, but raised no money and only answered league of women voters and newspaper questionnaires.

What would you say was your key to winning this office? Having a good campaign team, working hard by walking door to door and listening to the voters concerns. I also attended and sometimes spoke at city council meetings and was appointed to the youth assistance committee. The second race I had gained alot of support from people that I got to know while serving my first two year term and continuing to walk door to door. Both times I sought and received the endorsement of the Hazel Park firefighters union.

What has been your biggest political accomplishment in promoting libertarianism since being elected? Thinking for myself, listening to those in the council and the city and taking a big chance and firing a seemingly popular city manager against the wishes of alot of supporters, including the sitting Mayor. There was a threatened recall but it never materialized, and we found out that the city was in worse financial shape than we first thought. We put in a new city manager and new finance director/ treasurer, cut the fat from the budget with help from the unions concessions and their ideas to save money and jobs,(we did lay off six part time, four full time employees and have not filled four vacant police officer positions) we also cut back on programs and services and did not raise property taxes, we did raise fees in many areas. Seven months latter the Mayor resigned. The underlying reasons for firing the city manager is that three of the five on council (myself included) felt money was not being spent wisely and with enough concern for the future of the city. When we asked questions about the empty water fund surplus, the failed attempt to relocate city hall, the land acquisition for the move before the required vote of the citizens and not bidding out the $9.7 million Ice Arena project, the answers made us suspicious of wrong doing, pocketing money or kickbacks. As is the desire of many Libertarians I was not the majority on council but instead the third vote that made the majority. I made the motion that meeting to fire the city manager. We took the heat that followed and survived and kept the city out of bankruptcy. Another accomplishment that I am very proud of is my appointment to a twelve town trash board. This appointment meant that the rest of council trusted me to represent our city on this board that has its own $8.5 million budget. They all know that I am the Libetarian. The board is made up of mostly city managers or DPW directors and one city attorney. There are only two elected officials on the board, myself and a city councilman from Troy, Martin Howrylak. Together with the lead of another city Royal Oak we (Troy, Royal Oak and Hazel Park) have lowered rates 20%, stopped the planned construction of a golf course on our capped landfill and returned over $2 million to the member cities from the construction money. I was elected secretary of this board and sit on two standing committees that are seeking to settle pending law suits and have the support of the current chair to be the next chairperson. I never thought that when I got into politics that I would have been literally talking trash.

I encourage everyone to get involved in their hometown city government by starting to attend council meetings reading the local paper that covers the meetings and apply to a board or commission. Its easier than you think and so much fun to make good things happen!!!! Go for it I'm glad I did!!!
